In-House or Outsourced Training

There are a lot of considerations on this subject. Cost effectiveness. Convenience and be able to train workers on short notice when required for the job for existing client or to supply records of training of workers to the prospective one

In our Blog at <http://www.oscts.ca/news/> there two items of interest:

- In-House or Contract Trainer discussion
- Cost Effectiveness of In-House or Contract Training spreadsheet which may help you to evaluate cost effectiveness of hiring in-house trainer or outsourcing training.

In either case, OSCTS can help you with finding professional safety trainer for your site, or to provide contractual training, and also supplying team of safety trainers to train workers in the short period of time for the shutdowns or maintenance work.
